Updated May 2016

The idea for this resource guide came as a result of the increased demand for food resources among people living with HIV.

In order to create a resource that acknowledges the many different facets of food insecurity, we have included the following categories:

- Food resources available through TIHAN, SAAF, and other providers of support for people living with HIV in Tucson
- Other major food resource providers in the Tucson area
- Faith communities with food pantries
- Locations where hot meals are served on any particular day
- Resources for support and education about stretching food budgets and overall financial planning

Some words of caution:

- ⇒ TIHAN does not permit proselytizing, but other faith communities and faith-based organizations may require it as a condition of receiving help. Please be advised that some of the food programs found in this brochure may involve proselytizing.
- ⇒ The food resources listed in this brochure have varying levels of knowledge and sensitivity regarding HIV/AIDS. Remember that you are never required to disclose your HIV status to anyone.
- ⇒ Finally, the food support programs listed in this brochure may have eligibility criteria and limited resources, and are subject to change. Some may involve small fees or intake/ registration requirements. It is highly recommended to call to verify resources, eligibility, and requirements prior to visiting any of these programs for food assistance.

If you discover that any of the information in this brochure is incorrect or has changed, or if you know of additional food resources, please let us know! Contact a TIHAN Link Specialist volunteer at LinkVolunteer@tihan.org or 299-6647 ext 205.

Thanks to Rincon Congregational United Church of Christ, and to the staff and volunteers of TIHAN who helped put together this resource guide. We are grateful to the people of Rincon UCC, the Justice and Witness Ministries Committee, and those responsible for the Dunham Trust Fund for their long-term support of TIHAN's programs focusing on addressing hunger and nutritional support for people living with HIV.

Grounded in openness, with respect and justice for all, Rincon Congregational United Church of Christ is a welcoming and progressive Christian community that believes in a God who is more about grace than judgment. For more information about Rincon UCC, visit www.rinconucc.org or call 745-6237.

Food Programs at TIHAN

(Tucson Interfaith HIV/AIDS Network)

Poz Café Lunch Program

Poz Café is a monthly lunch program for people living with HIV. "Poz" is an abbreviation for positive, as in HIV-positive.

On the third Thursday of each month, volunteers from local Tucson faith communities provide a fantastic, delicious and nutritious lunch for adults living with HIV and their guests. This is followed by time to "hang out," chat, participate in a game or two of bingo, enjoy our raffle of fun and useful gifts, and receive a CarePackage filled with toiletry items. Poz Café is a way to enhance good health through friendship and nutrition.

All attending the event are required to honor the highest standard of confidentiality. Limited transportation may be available.

For more information about Poz Café and to RSVP, contact a TIHAN Link Specialist volunteer at LinkVolunteer@tihan.org or 299-6647 ext 205.

Poz Breakfast Program

TIHAN offers a voucher to people living with HIV for a free breakfast the first Wednesday of every month from 6:00am to 2:00pm, courtesy of Mother Hubbard's Restaurant. The restaurant does not distribute vouchers—to request a voucher, contact a TIHAN Link Specialist volunteer at LinkVolunteer@tihan.org or 299-6647 ext 205.

ONE FREE BREAKFAST SPECIAL

EGGS, HASHBROWNS, & TOAST

Coffee, tea, or juice is available for a fee.

Mother Hubbard's, 14 W. Grant Rd.
(in the plaza at the northwest corner of Grant & Stone)

TIHAN Food Literacy Program

TIHAN offers “Eating Well” classes four times a year, in collaboration with the University of Arizona College of Life Sciences and Agriculture Cooperative Extension. This two-part class for adults living with HIV connects participants with food resources and teaches nutritional essentials such as food budgeting and healthier eating.

The second session of the class features a cooking demonstration, and participants get to enjoy the results. Participants living with HIV who complete both sessions of the two-part class are eligible to receive a $50 gift card to Fry’s.

For more information about the Eating Well classes and to RSVP, contact a TIHAN Link Specialist volunteer at LinkVolunteer@tihan.org or 299-6647 ext 205.

Food and Nutrition Programs at SAAF (Southern Arizona AIDS Foundation)

Food for Life

Food for Life offers home delivery of up to three ready-to-eat meals a day to people living with HIV who have demonstrated nutritional need and are unable to shop or cook for themselves. A doctor's authorization is required, and geographic limitations apply.

Food Pantry

SAAF has an in-house food pantry. Once a month, registered clients living with HIV can obtain food staples, supplemental meat and dairy products, and fresh produce items. Food bags are available daily at the SAAF office.

Harvest Days

Individuals living with HIV can visit SAAF to receive fresh produce on the last Wednesday of each month. Arrive at 10:00am to sign in. Available until supplies run out (usually by 12:00pm).

SAAF's food and nutrition programs are available to active, registered SAAF clients. Call 628-7223 for more information.

Please check with your own physician or case manager about additional food and nutrition resources that might be available exclusively to their own clients/patients.

More Food Literacy and Financial Literacy Programs

For Long-Term Planning and Support for Food and Financial Wellbeing

These programs offer assistance and counseling to help maximize your food and nutrition options and help you budget to make the most of your income and use your available funds most effectively.

Did You Know?

Nutritional Considerations for People Living with HIV

Poor nutritional status can weaken the immune system's functioning for anyone, so it becomes even more important for people living with HIV to get proper nutrition. Just like taking medications and visiting the doctor regularly, eating healthy is an essential part of managing HIV. It may help us live longer, ward off infections, and even help our medications work better.

What should you look for?

- ◆ Dark, deep and brightly colored fruits and vegetables like tomatoes, blueberries, broccoli and carrots—for phytochemicals and antioxidants
- ◆ A variety of protein foods, including seafood, lean meat, poultry, eggs, beans and peas, soy products, and unsalted nuts and seeds
- ◆ Sweet potatoes, carrots, and red bell peppers—for Vitamin A—or foods labeled vitamin A fortified, like milk or cereal
- ◆ Spinach, kale, and broccoli—all are good sources of vitamin A, vitamin C, calcium, and potassium
- ◆ Whole grains (like steel-cut oats, whole wheat, and bulgur), lentils, and any type of bean—for dietary fiber, B vitamins, and plant-based protein
- ◆ Foods with anti-inflammatory properties, like omega-3 fatty acids found in salmon, tuna, mackerel, and walnuts

Don't forget about food safety! When the immune system is weakened, we become more vulnerable to different types of infections, including food-borne illnesses.

What should you pay attention to?

- ◆ Around food and before eating, wash your hands well and often.
- ◆ Clean the lids of cans before opening them.
- ◆ Keep your cooking area and utensils clean and sanitized.
- ◆ Safer food choices include meat and seafood that is properly cooked rather than raw, milk and eggs that are pasteurized, and fresh fruits and vegetables that have been washed first.

The Body, The Complete HIV/AIDS Resource

www.thebody.com/index/dietnut.html

This brochure of food resources was compiled by the volunteers and staff of the Tucson Interfaith HIV/AIDS Network, a coalition of individuals and faith communities helping people with HIV to live well.

Our mission is to offer unconditional love and non-medical support to those living with HIV, as well as to their loved ones, while educating and activating our faith communities. All services are offered free of prejudice and proselytism.

TIHAN is the largest privately-funded provider of support for people living with HIV in the state of Arizona.

Nutritional support plays a key role in the health and wellbeing of people living with HIV, and it is one of the areas of focus for TIHAN. Our Poz Café program is the largest regular gathering place for people living with HIV in Southern Arizona, having served over 22,000 meals since the program began.

TIHAN is a privately-funded 501(c)(3) charity, dependent on caring individuals and businesses, congregations, grants, and special events, such as the annual Treasures for TIHAN auction. TIHAN receives no government funding, and relies on the efforts of amazing volunteers who give generously of their time and talents.
